

WHERE THE MUSEUM WAS BORN

It all began with a meeting.
The one with the descendants of a soldier.
Together we followed in his footsteps and shared memories and emotions.

It was such an intense experience that we felt compelled to share it with everyone
Thus the Museum was born, in the old 19th-century stable in the village of Cà di Plesso.

Because memory is a gift and is only valuable if passed on.

OUR STORIES

Soldiers & Civilians:
Letters, objects, photographs.
Young lives suspended between duty, hope, and love.

The territory:
Paths, trenches, silence.
The mountain that has seen everything and still tells its story.

Memory today:
We collect memories to restore them.
So that no story is lost.

OUR MISSION

They're not just objects.
They're stories.

A worn mess tin, a faded photograph, a broken bracelet.
Every object in our Museum has a voice, a name, a life suspended between the roar of war and the silence of memory.

At the Museum of Stories from the Gothic Line in Castel d'Aiano, you'll find not just artifacts, but faces. Not just dates, but emotions. You'll walk among fragments of real lives, reconstructed with respect and passion, because the most authentic story is the one that resembles us.

Come meet those who were there. Listen, look, feel. You'll discover that war isn't just a chapter in books, but a thread of lives that still speak today, even through a canteen, a uniform, or a glance saved from time.

We're waiting for you!
